2 YOUTHS KILLED AS CAR PLUNGES INTO SANDY RIVER

Third Youth Is Seriously Injured
In Elliott Wreck

Two youths were killed and one other injured late Saturday when the car in which they were riding plunged over a 45-foot cliff into Little Sandy River on the outskirts of Sandy Hook.

Dead as a result of the accident were Otto Bowling, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowling, Sandy Hook, and J. R. Evans, 15, Bowling was dead when pulled from the car, which was almost submerged in the river, and the Evans boy was taken to Stovall Hospital, Grayson, where he died Monday morning from a fractured skull and multiple lacerations.

Otto's brother, Orbie Bowling, age 14, was badly hurt in the wreck, while Earl (Billy) Wolfenbarger, 15, escaped serious injuries and was returned to his home at Bigstone.

Orbie Bowling was removed to King's Daughter Hospital in Ashland where his condition was "fair." His injuries include a fractured skull, broken left arm, cuts on the head and face and multiple abrasions.

Funeral for Otto Bowling was conducted Monday at the home on Bruin under direction of Lewis Ferguson Funeral Home. He is survived by his parents, several brothers and sisters.

Artificial Respiration Used
The auto, driven by Evans, was en route to Sandy Hook on the Ruin road when it failed to make a curve along the river about 200 yards from Sandy Hook's main street.

The accident occurred about 5 p.m. and Barnes Adkins, who lives near the scene, saw the auto plunge off the road. Telling his father, Ballard Adkins to go for help, the younger Adkins ran to the scene.

He said when he reached the brink of the cliff he looked down into Little Sandy and could see no auto, and then he ran down to the river from which place he saw the wheels of the car protruding from the water. He plunged into the river and waded and swam to the car.

He found a foot protruding from the car, and pulled at it, gradually pulling out the youth and opening the door of the car at the same time. It was Wolfenbarger, and he apparently was drowned, at least he was not breathing. Adkins slung him across his shoulder and waded out with him, explaining that when he got to the bank Wolfenbarger had "come to". Adkins asked him if any other people were in the car and when he answered there were three others, Adkins said he went back to the car, Wolfenbarger following him. Together they removed Evans from the submerged car. He apparently was drowned, but he was revived by artificial respiration administered by Glenn Ison.

Meanwhile, others had arrived at the scene, and they helped get Orbie Bowling out and also resuscitated him by artificial respiration.

Then they turned the car over and extricated the body of Otto Bowling who was dead from injuries.

Members of the rescue party said Evans and Orbie Bowling were under the water 10 to 15 minutes before being extricated by the rescuers. That they were revived by artificial respiration is a feat of remarkable importance.

CLEANLINESS ADDS TO TOWN'S CHARM

West Liberty, for a long time a beauty with a dirty face, washed her face last week. And, we love her more than ever now!

The clean-up campaign sponsored by the city council and the Woman's Club and aided by the highway department, brought out the town's appearance somewhat comparable to its hospitality and charm.

We wonder why we can't continue this very fine civic spirit and keep it that way.

The example of cooperation and civic pride exhibited last week shows what can be done. We're all for continuing the project at regular intervals—say, once a month.

Visitors praise the hospitality, warmth and charm of West Liberty on nearly every hand. But most of them are too polite to ask us why we don't keep it cleaner.

The Woman's Club, the Garden Club and the city council all have taken steps to beautify our town. Landscaping of the court house square a few years ago was a

Dr. Clark, UK Historian to Address Woman's Club Banquet Meeting

The spring banquet of the Morgan County Woman's Club will take place Tuesday evening, May 12, in the dining room of the Christian church. The Home and Garden Department will be in charge. Dr. Thomas D. Clark, Head of the Department of History at the University of Kentucky, will be the speaker.

His work was in connection with the general exchange of persons activities in which an attempt is being made to bring about better understanding between the United States and Asia.

A native of Louisville, Miss. Dr. Clark came to the University of Kentucky in 1931. Since 1942 he has been head of the U.K. Department of History, and in 1946 was selected by his colleagues in the College of Arts and Sciences as that college's distinguished professor of the year. In 1948 he was named by the U.K. Board of Trustees "distinguished professor of the University."

Among the various books written by Dr. Clark have been "The Rambling Frontier," "The Kentucky," "Pills, Petticoats and Plows," "The Southern Country Editor," and "A History of Kentucky."

Tickets to the banquet may be obtained from any member of the woman's club.

Morgan Seniors Enjoy Annual Tour

Morgan County high school's annual senior class trip began at 5 p.m. Sunday, April 12, when thirty-two seniors and two chaperones boarded the chartered Greyhound bus at the local bus station. There were shouts of good-byes, laughter and even a few tears from parents, relatives and friends who had gathered to see them off.

It was an all-night trip to Washington, arriving there Monday morning at ten-thirty. After getting settled at the New Colonial Hotel in Washington, the group was on its own and set out on an unguided tour of downtown Washington. Window shopping was a main objective of the girls several of whom went further and bought new shoes.

Later that evening the stage show at the Capitol Theatre attracted the students. On the stage they saw Gloria DeHaven, movie actress and singer, and Ray Malone, dancer and TV performer on Gary Moore's show. Along with the stage show was a movie, "Ma and Pa Kettle on Vacation."

Eight o'clock came early Tuesday morning, but everyone was anxious to begin the guided tour of Washington, Alexandria, and Mt. Vernon. The Bureau of Printing and Engraving was first stop and for a few minutes everyone had the privilege of viewing stacks of money—from an enclosed balcony. The Smithsonian Institution was well worth the forty-five minutes spent there.

In Arlington Cemetery it was impressive to see the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier with the change of the guard on the hour, cherry trees in blossom forming a background. The Robert E. Lee home

SALEM-STACY FORK ROAD IS AWARDED

The Licking River Limestone Company has been awarded the contract for grade, drain and traffic bond surfacing of the 3 1/2-mile sector of the Salem-Stacy Fork road in Morgan County. Bids were opened April 10 and the contract awarded April 17.

This highway starts from Ky. 205 near Salem church on Grassy Creek and extends 3.2 miles to intersect with previously constructed highway 5.2 miles southwest of Ky. 191 at Stacy Fork.

Raymond B. Gose, resident engineer here, advises that work orders are expected to be effective soon and this road will be completed prior to November 1. This highway is known as Ky. 844 and when completed will be only 8.75 miles from Stacy Fork to Buskirk post office near Salem church on Grassy Creek and will be another connecting link of Morgan county's road network.

Mr. Gose advises that the contractor, Kentucky Road Oiling Co. of West Liberty, has completed all cross drain pipe and culverts on the Wrigley-Leisure road, which has been under construction throughout the winter months. This road is still closed to through traffic; however, the contractor should have most of this 3 1/2 mile road passable part time within the next 30 days. This highway is now passable to Winding Stairs-Blaze intersection from Wrigley.

Rep. Perkins Opposes Proposed Cut In REA and Phone Co-op Budget

New Budget Would Slash $15 Million
Off Each Program

WASHINGTON, April 20—Representative Carl D. Perkins of the Kentucky district today told the agricultural subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee that cutting the Rural Electrification Administration budget was like "driving a paying customer out of your store."

The Hindman, Ky., Democrat cited the growth of R.E.A. co-operatives in Kentucky and what it had meant to the state's farmers. Until R.E.A. was born in 1935, only 3 percent of Kentucky's farms had electricity. Today 83.5 percent of Kentucky's farms receive R.E.A. service.

Brings In Revenue

"It isn't good economy for this Congress to cut loan authorizations that bring in millions of additional dollars of revenue in local, state and federal taxes and, at the same time, elevate the standard of living of all rural people," Perkins declared.

Perkins urged that the Truman budget for R.E.A. electricity and telephone programs be approved by the committee, rather than the revised budget.

Under the Truman budget for fiscal 1954, the total loan authorizations for electrification would be $135,000,000, and for telephone cuts $15,000,000 from each program.

REV. D. E. BROWN PASSES SUNDAY

He had been in failing health for about four years and became seriously ill only a few days before his death. He was pastor of the Enterprise Baptist church at Louisa at the time of his death and had been pastor of the Westwood Baptist church in Ashland.

Funeral was conducted Wednesday at the Paint Valley church at Relief with Rev. Kelly McGraw of Ashland and Rev. A. C. Bradley of this county officiating. A large assemblage, including many people from out of the county, attended the rites. Interment was made in the family cemetery at Relief.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Etta Gambill Brown; four sons, Dewey E. Brown, Jr., of Ashland, Proctor Brown of Dayton, O., and James and Jackie Brown of Relief; three brothers, Arthur Brown of Callettsburg, Ernest of Red Bank, and Edward of Relief; two sisters, Mrs. Maxie Williams of East Chicago, Ind., and Effie Cildiron of Fayetteville, O.

Rev. Skeen To End Revival Sunday

28 Persons Join
Christian Church
During Meeting

The evangelistic meeting now in progress at the Christian Church will close Sunday, April 26. Rev. Orville Skeen, pastor of the Pikeville Christian Church, has been preaching each night. Services begin at 7:00 p.m. There will be preaching every night except Saturday.

The services have been well attended. Rev. Skeen has been bringing inspirational messages which have warmed the heart of all who have heard him.

The Old Grassy Church of Mize had a delegation present Wednesday, and the Pikeville Christian Church will come on Friday. Part of their choir will be present and will bring some special music. Sunday night the Nickell Quartet from Portsmouth will be present and will sing for us.

The services will close Sunday. There will be a baptismal service at that time for those making their confession during the meeting. Immediately following the service there will be a reception in the basement in honor of all new members of the congregation. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Twenty-eight have responded to Christ and others are expected to come before the meeting closes. Three have re-dedicated their lives, ten have transferred their membership from other communities and 15 have come by confession of faith.

CARL D. PERKINS

Before R.E.A., only 8,480 Kentucky farms were receiving central station electric service, but today R.E.A. serves 185,342 Kentucky farms, Perkins said.

H. L. Spurlock, Winchester, manager of the East Kentucky Rural Electric Co-operative Association, wrote that of the 26 R.E.A. co-ops in Kentucky, none has reached complete "area coverage."

Not one of the co-ops ever has been delinquent in repayment of the Government loans, and 75 percent of the borrowers are ahead of schedule in their payments, Spurlock said.

Wants To Generate Power

Fred Rose, manager of the Licking Valley Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation, West Liberty, Ky., wrote that his co-op started in May, 1941. Before that, "no one was interested in providing electric service."

"Rural co-ops must be permitted to generate their own power, where the need exists, in order to live. This is the only weapon that keeps private power costs in line. This co-operative pays nearly three times more for wholesale power than the co-ops in the T.V.A. area."

Adding Taxable Property

Rose said that to give adequate service in his area, his co-op will need a loan of $540,000 in fiscal 1954.

Representative Perkins told the subcommittee that with some $100,000,000 being invested in Kentucky co-op rural power systems, member farmers are adding about $500,000,000 worth of taxable property to the wealth of Kentucky.

Of the R.E.A. telephone program, Perkins noted that since 1920 there has been a decided drop in rural telephone service, despite the fact that it is as sorely needed as electricity.

MORGAN GRIDDERS PLAY IN TEST GAME HERE WEDNESDAY

Foretaste of Grid
Skill Seen As Two
Rugged Teams Vie

Local football fans got a foretaste of the type of grid playing they will see served this fall when Coach Glenn Stanley divided his 34 candidates for the Morgan County high school squad into two teams here Wednesday and played a practice game.

Playing six regulars on each team and filling in with new candidates, Coach Stanley pitted a 155-pound Gold team against a 165-pound Blue team. And the Golds won 6-0 with last year's all-conference fullback Dale Dehart scoring the winning touchdown on the third down of the last play from the 1 yard line. McKenzie's try for extra point failed. The game wound up five weeks of spring practice for the Morgan countians, designed to prepare them for a 9-game schedule with the best teams in this area this fall.

The Golds checked out 222 yards of rushing to the Blue's 95 and got 11 first downs to 5. Both teams played ruggedly and many good prospects showed up. The new boys from Cannel City, despite lack of experience, looked good.

GOLD team and d weights—Kenneth Hamilton* 150 and Norman Elam 155, ends; L. D. Hutchins* 180 and Randolph Potter 175, tackles; Alden Collins 165, tackle; John Dehart 165, tackle; and Newell Hill 140, guards; Clarence Williams* 145, center; Glenn Lykins* 150, Larry McKenzie* 155, Dale Dehart* 145 and Custer Castle 145, backs.

BLUE team—George Fanin* 185 and Garry McGuire 145, ends; Albert Wingo* 230 and Mitchell Crace* 170, tackles; Irvine Oney 165 and Frank Hall 150, guards; Dale Adams* 185, center; Richie Stacy* 150, Kenneth Spears 140, Doug Hall 145 and Sammy Hill* 155, backs.

KENTUCKY MEN FREED BY REDS

Four Kentucky soldiers were among the first two groups of Allied sick and wounded prisoners of war exchanged by the Chinese Reds Sunday and Monday in Korea. The Kentuckians are—Pfc. John L. Robinson of Willard, Carter county; Pfc. Norman Smith of Mottis, Knott county; Pfc. Paul O. Blanton of Broadhead, and Sgt. Orville P. Mullins, Covington.

The Chinese agreed last week to exchange 606 Allied prisoners wounded or sick for 5,800 Red prisoners held by the Allies. The first batch of 100 Allied prisoners was released Sunday night, a second batch Monday.

The sick American prisoners were quickly flown to Japan and then will be flown to America, at least those that are able to make the trip.

Pfc. Robinson lived at Willard, 12 miles from Grayson on the Webbville-Louisia road when he enlisted in 1950 at the age of 16. He is a son of Buel and Mabel Wilcox Robinson who since have moved to Wellston, Ohio. He was captured soon after he went to Korea in July of 1950 with the Second Infantry division. His parents had received six or seven letters from him since he was captured. He also had written to an uncle, Rev. Sam R. Wilcox, and an aunt, Mrs. Clara Robinson Kasee, both of Willard.

Pfc. Robinson's release was big news in the little village of Willard Sunday night. His aunt, Mrs. D. V. Kibbe, said the news answered prayers said regularly since he was taken prisoner 30 months ago.

Why Should I Sow Sericea This Spring?

By Berlyn Brown
Soil Conservation Service
Before answering that question let's find out something about Sericea Lespedeza. Sericea Lespedeza, hereafter called Sericea, was introduced into this country from Japan about 1896. Very little experimentation was conducted on it until about 1924. However, before this date the office of Foreign Plant Introduction sent some seed to a farmer in Tennessee and from this planting the species apparently escaped and became established over a considerable area in Overton County, Tennessee.

Sericea has a habit of growth like that of alfalfa. The current growth matures seed and dies in late fall, and the new growth comes from the crowns the following spring. During the first season one erect stem is produced. Additional stems come from crown buds the following years so that in the third or fourth year there may be 20 to 30 stems per plant.

The height of the first year's growth depends largely on the method of seeding. If seed is broadcast, the first year's growth may be some 12 to 18 inches in a good season. In all cases the second year's growth will attain a height of 2 to 3 feet, depending on moisture and soil conditions. The roots are woody and widely branched and penetrate the soil to a depth of 3 feet. This abundant and vigorous root system enables it to hold eroding soils and to resist prolonged dry weather. The climatic limitations are not fully known but it has survived several seasons in southern Michigan and southern Vermont. As far as present knowledge goes, Sericea would appear to be a plant for the territory from about 100 miles north of the Ohio River to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Atlantic to Central Kansas and Oklahoma.

Sericea thrives best on clay loams and silt loams but has also made good growth on sands and sandy loams. It thrives on poor, badly eroded soils. Its best growth is apparently made on soils on which it is most needed. Namely, the poor eroded clays, silt loams and sandy loams. On these soils alfalfa and clovers do not thrive well if at all. While Sericea thrives on poor, eroded soils it does require some fertilization, particularly phosphate and potash, if it is to be cut for hay year after year. Sericea hay does contain some tannic acid but not much more than Korean Lespedeza hay if cut when 10 to 12 inches high as it should be.

Now that we know something about the characteristics and requirements of Sericea let's get back to our original question: "Why should we sow Sericea this spring?" The reasons, varied and many, follow:

1. There are thousands of acres of land in Morgan county that are so poor and badly eroded that nothing except Sericea or trees could be economically grown on this land. Since Sericea is a deep-rooted perennial legume it will not only prevent further soil erosion but will build up the soil. It is one of our best soil builders.

2. Liming is not required to get a good stand and good growth but is beneficial. However, as stated before phosphate (super or rock) and potash are necessary for continued good yields of hay.

3. Sericea makes fine hay or excellent supplemental pasture in the summer when other pastures are not producing. If cut for hay it should be cut when 10 to 12 inches tall for highest quality. If allowed to become taller the stems become woody and there is a larger percentage of tannic acid present which has a bitter taste. It will produce two cuttings of hay after the first year. Chemical analyses conducted by the Arlington Experiment Farm, Va., shows the following analyses of various hays:

digestible protein—alfalfa hay, 10.6 percent; sericea hay 10.7 percent; total digestible nutrients—alfalfa hay 59.3 percent; sericea hay 51.9 percent. The leaves contain most of the protein and it is easy to see why every effort should be made to save them.

4. Sericea is an excellent plant to sow in wildlife areas and field borders, particularly those adjacent to woods. There is nearly always a strip 50 to 100 feet wide bordering woods where nothing much will grow on account of shade and lack of moisture. Sericea will grow extremely well in these shady places where it may be mowed for hay or left to seed and provide food and cover for quail.

5. Sericea costs no more per acre to seed than other pasture mixtures of grasses and legumes.

6. Sericea is also used for silage and sericea meal both of which are of high feeding value. Sericea requires a firm seed bed. The land can be plowed and disced and allowed to settle before seeding or if the land was cultivated the year previous, disced alone will be sufficient. In either case the land should be allowed to settle before seeding and the seed cultripped in. The seed should not be covered in any manner after seeding.

Seed is available from local dealers for all who are interested in seeding it this spring. It is best to seed between April 1 and 15.

Now that we have the legume to do it with let's put those poor, eroded hillsides into production again.

CAN WE RAISE SHEEP IN MORGAN COUNTY?

Forty to fifty years ago nearly every Morgan farmer had a small flock of sheep. One reason was to have the wool to weave into blankets and yarn for clothing and there was a good market for wool. Another reason was the food value. Yearling lambs were killed for meat and nearly every family killed a number of sheep to eat.

Annual meetings and revivals were always supplied with mutton by the people who would get together and purchase three or four sheep and divide the meat. There also was a market for the sheep and droves of them would be driven to market by buyers. Some of these men were very accurate in looking in a sheep's mouth and telling its age.

Morgan county today lists less than fifty sheep on the assessor's books and some of the best estimates place the number of sheep in Morgan county at less than one hundred. There are evidently good reasons why there are no more in the county. Some people think that the chief causes are: lack of fencing, care required to raise them, and fear that dogs will destroy their flock.

Perhaps now would be a good time to start raising sheep as there are only 220 dogs listed at the assessor's office in Morgan county and only 5 dogs in West Liberty, but these five certainly do travel around over town and make you think there are five hundred.

Would sheep raising be profitable for farmers? There are hundreds and hundreds of acres of land in Morgan county that is producing no income to the owner. Much of this land is growing up in brush and will not pay to cultivate in crops. The bushes could be cut and set in grass for grazing. It would require some expense to fence the land.

A farmer could begin with a few ewes and in one or two years have a sufficient number to use as a base for his flock. The initial cost would not be very great. It is necessary to have his pasture so he can rotate the sheep from one field to another.

The use of penothiazine for worms is very effective and reduces the loss from the chief diseases to a minimum.

There is a very good market usually for wool and especially a good market for lambs.

There could be a good market for mutton and an ordinary sheep killed and dressed would bring $30 or more.

As we drove through the Blue Grass around Lexington recently, hundreds of sheep could be seen grazing on high valued blue grass land. If they can raise sheep on this valuable land, could farmers in Morgan county afford to raise sheep on land which is not used and with very little investment in land?

The Courier is anxious to know what farmers think about the idea and what are the reasons for not having sheep in the county. We welcome letters from farmers telling what they think about sheep raising.

WHY FARM PRICES ARE DROPPING

An example of why farm prices are going down was given this week when Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson ordered price support removed from honey and immediately announced that the government's stockpile of honey acquired under the support program would be offered for sale at once. It was a double blow. Not only did removal of price supports depress the market but the announcement that 7 million pounds of honey would be dumped on the market gave honey prices a second kick downward.

Another reason farm prices have dropped since the new administration took office is that Benson has repeatedly declined to say he favors extending the price support program at 90% of parity when it expires next year. Farmers are not so dumb that they do not, like any good business man, discount coming events before they happen. A pledge by Benson now that he would seek extension of the 90% of parity farm price support law would bolster farm prices immediately.

LOUISVILLE IS OUR NEIGHBOR

The visit of eight ladies of the Young Women's Christian Association, ODO Club in Louisville, Kentucky, to the Jephtha school in Morgan county is a milestone in the expansion of good will and understanding. These ladies drove 175 miles to visit the children in a one room school and meet the parents, have lunch together and spend the day in the hills of Kentucky. They enjoyed their visit. The children had a big day of their school. They understand that some one cares for them. If enough people from all the cities and communities could visit other places in Kentucky, see and get acquainted we would have a program of education and a unity in Kentucky for a better and a greater Kentucky.

Why should anybody lie on Nixon? The truth was a good deal.

WEST LIBERTY DOES A GOOD JOB IN CLEAN-UP DRIVE

West Liberty's clean-up efforts last week prove one thing: no town can hold a candle to us when it comes to cooperating for a good thing. We not only cleaned up, painted up, fixed up, but we got the people, the press, the radio, and even the State behind us to see that our clean-up drive was successful. And it was. It was a success in that we have a cleaner town, and a more beautiful town.

The interest and support given the clean-up by Mayor Ora McClain and members of the city council would do any town proud; the interest of Police Judge John Helton went a long way toward getting the work done; press gave space for publicizing the campaign and also donated clean-up cards to be hung on door knobs; Bernard E. Whitt gave publicity to the drive in his Wednesday newscast; the State Highway Department not only carried away our dirt and rubbish but also painted a center line, parking spaces and crosswalks on Main street; Hawk Keeton came through with his broom, and members of the Morgan County Woman's Club—who initiated the clean-up drive—helped in the clean-up as well as helping with the arrangements.

While the West Liberty Garden Club did not officially take part in the town's clean-up, its members showed citizen's pride in cooperating. Garden Club members are to be commended for the beauty they are adding to our town through the planting of flowers. Almost 2000 tulip and hyacinth bulbs are now in bloom in West Liberty due to the Garden Club. The beauty they are giving West Liberty in flowers will certainly be appreciated by local citizens and passers-through.

A small town has beauty possibilities no city ever can have. Take a clean town with a clock-towered courthouse, steeped churches against a blue sky, put in a backdrop of serried green hills studded with redbud bloom, and you have a picture without peer in all the big cities' scope.

THE KEA EXHIBITS COURAGE

We are proud there is a group in Kentucky with courage to oppose the indiscriminate Congressional investigations on the pretext of finding Reds in our society. We refer to the Kentucky Educational Association's resolution last week voicing disapproval of Congressional investigation of alleged Communism in schools.

Communists as such should not be tolerated in our schools or anywhere else. But investigations headed by headline hunters who subject their victims to inquisitions before television cameras to advance their own political fortunes or discredit some individual or group who fails to agree with them on every point, smacks of Communism itself. Because anyone who foments distrust in democratic government exhibits the plainest kind of Communism himself.

Whoever heard of a real sleuth trying to find a criminal in front of television cameras. And who ever heard of an F.B.I. agent passing out indiscriminate accusations against individuals just to make the headlines?

Cries of Communism too long have fouled up government policy and fooled the people into believing our real danger was from Reds in our own country rather than from Communists in the Kremlin. A lot of politicians right now are trying to drop the myths they created themselves last year by crying Communism.

McCarthyism and his type are a plague to democratic government, because they breed distrust in democratic processes.

LABOR AVAILABLE IN THIS AREA FOR INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

The five counties of Morgan, Elliott, Rowan, Menifee and Bath have estimated potential reserve of workers for industrial expansion of 2,400 men and 2,300 women, according to the current issue of the Statistical Journal of Economic Security in Kentucky. These figures include only available workers now residing in the area and do not include the hundreds of former residents of the area who have migrated to industrial centers, many of whom would welcome jobs at home if such were available.

The Journal also notes that jobs have increased 10.7 percent in the five counties during the past two years. Meanwhile, jobs have decreased from 3 percent to as much as 20.6 percent in the coal producing counties of southeast Kentucky.

What could be more pleasing to the eye than Kentucky's hills in springtime? Right now Ol' Morgan is truly a garden spot of the world, her sloping hills green with grass just high enough to look neatly clipped; the trees a-burstin' into leaf, redbud a-bloomin' and birds a-singin'.

Robert Sprague has declined a defense post because he doesn't want to sell stock in a family company. Republicans will keep his name on file though—they may want to hit him for a job after '56.

One of the motor car magnates has gotten his fourth divorce at a cost of one million dollars. At least his trade-in value seems to hold up nicely.

You are really middle aged if you remember when there was no parking problem around the high school.

There are some boys of eighteen who just can't believe that some day they'll be as dumb as their fathers.

What if marriage licenses expired each year like car licenses?

great step forward. Then, later, the planting of shrubs and trees on the highway entrances to town added to the town's charm. The hiring of a street cleaner by the city council recently is another step forward, and the clean-up drive last week did our hearts good.

Now, it's up to all of us to do our part to keep the town clean and to cooperate with those who are endeavoring to make it more beautiful.

Let's keep the street cleaner on as a regular employee of the city and let's have clean-up days once a month. And, let's all join in and help the ladies beautify the town.

A VISIT TO BIG LAUREL, VA.

James Taylor Adams, a mild-mannered man of slight build with a shock of white hair and keen eyes, lives in Big Laurel, Virginia. He is widely known in Virginia and Eastern Kentucky as a genealogist and as president of the Adams, Craft, Webb Organization—which meets at Mayking, Kentucky, every year. He also is postmaster at Big Laurel and in addition is feature writer for five daily newspapers in Virginia and Tennessee.

Big Laurel is ten miles from Pound and two miles off U.S. 23. This two miles is a beautiful, narrow, graveled road and the hills beside it are situated on a rolling hill, surrounded by trees and shrubs native to many states. Friends from all over the United States have sent seeds, flowers and shrubs to James Taylor. The Adams family made from native stone is nearby.

Here you find a wonderful collection of books written by and about the Adams family. Most of these have been donated by friends. Besides these books on the Adams family you will find many more on other families prominent in the early history of Virginia and Kentucky. Near the library building is a small cottage and a small church under construction, to be used by those desiring to stay in Big Laurel while using the library for research. James Taylor, Jr. has a general store here. Big Laurel is a typical rural community.

James Taylor and his mother, Mary Jane Short Adams, visited relatives in Morgan county several times in the early 1900's. They walked through the mountains, down Beaver Creek, Floyd county, down Middle Fork, and through Salyersville, in Magoffin county, staying with relatives along the way—the Halls on Beaver Creek, the Williams Wickers at Huesville, the Smith Adams near Salyersville. On one of these visits James Taylor worked here at the Morgan House. He was interested to know that it is now called the Cole Hotel. He asked if the Matthew T. Scott Collegiate Institute still existed and was surprised when told of the large native stone structure which took its place as the Morgan County High School.

James Taylor has many relatives in Morgan county, among whom are Mrs. Claude Wells, Mrs. Mona Wells and Carl Elam of West Liberty.

(Mrs. Ova O. Haney of West Liberty contributed the above for Ol' Morgan after she and three other West Liberty ladies called on Mr. Adams recently at his home in Virginia.)

Louisville Women Are Hurt Slightly In Wreck

Mrs. Ruth Heim and Mrs. Mary K. George of Louisville and Mrs. Mary Farmer of Chicago were slightly injured and shocked when the car driven by Mrs. Heim ran into a hole in the road near Hazel Green and threw them out of the car. They were brought to West Liberty Hospital and treated by Dr. H. B. Murray. The car was badly damaged and left at the Ford Garage for repair.

Mrs. H. B. Murray and Mrs. Kenneth Fairchild took the women to Lexington where they took a plane on to Louisville.

Mrs. Farmer Patton and son Fred of Akron, Ohio, are visiting Mrs. Patton's mother, Mrs. G. W. Patton and other relatives.

SENIOR TOUR

Tuesday, the group saw New York City from a glass-top sight-seeing bus. St. John's Cathedral, largest in the world, was the first stop, and even though it was raining many students made pictures. The drive through Central Park was enjoyed, and a view of the luxurious Park Avenue apartments emphasized the contrast between the rich and the derelicts in the Bowery.

The group walked through Chinatown and bought souvenirs at a Chinese shop. Lunch was enjoyed in the RCA Restaurant at Rockefeller Center, and later a two-hour visit through this communications spot proved of great interest. A radio broadcast was seen from a glass-enclosed balcony, and even more interesting was the television setting of Martin Kane Private Eye, which was being prepared for telecast that evening at 10:30. Lee Tracy, Martin Kane himself, was on the set. Later, everyone enjoyed seeing himself and the other seniors on TV.

Something different was the boat ride to the Statue of Liberty. All sat on the deck and viewed the Manhattan skyline. The group rode the elevator to the 10th floor of the statue, then walked up a 12-story spiral stairway to the head of the statue.

The tallest was saved for last, and the trip to the top of the Empire State Building, highest in the world—102 stories—was as exciting as had been anticipated. A souvenir shop here was a must.

With hardly time to dress for the evening ahead, the group managed to look its best for the visit to Broadway, the theatres, Times Square. Paramount Theatre was first stop of the evening. Eddie Fisher (fast becoming the Frank Sinatra of today) was appearing in person with Hugo Winterhalter and his orchestra and The Beachcombers. The theatre and crowds were all that visitors had imagined. Among those at the theatre was "Mama" Berle, Milton Berle's mother, who was asked to stand and just happened to be sitting nearby. A 3-dimensional movie was featured with the stage show. After the theatre, most of the students joined the crowds walking up and down Broadway, still starry-eyed from the bright lights and swiftness of the city.

Friday was free until 2:00 p.m. and the group took advantage of this to shop at Macy's, Gimbel's, Lord & Taylor, Saks Fifth Avenue, and to ride the subway. The subway proved unusually interesting to four of the boys, who rushed with New Yorkers to board the subway. When the door whizzed shut, everyone had managed to get on except the "frustrated but amused" four.

Morgan county seniors were welcomed cordially, were spotted quickly by reason of their Southern accent and hospitable manner. Saturday afternoon the chartered bus pulled up at the spot it had left almost a week before, and everyone was happy to see home folks again, but said they wouldn't exchange their week's trip for anything.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Courier:

Recently I read a list of World War II casualties in the Licking Valley Courier. Among them was the name of Ira Spencer, Jr. (No information.) I am his sister and his father lives at Jackson, Ohio, Route 2. His name is James Spencer.

My brother's name was not Jr. but just Ira J. Spencer, so that is why they are confused. When he went into the service, they registered him Ira Spencer, Jr. and because he had the J. in his name he left it that way.

So please make the correction and any correspondence concerning him please send to James Spencer, R 2, Jackson, Ohio.

MRS. CORA S. KEETON

Dear Earl:

Your editorial of April 16, 1953 entitled "Is Morgan's Progress Tainted with Communism?" is such an excellent expression of my views that I am placing it in the Congressional Record.

Editorials such as this will do much to help the public realize the seriousness of the issues which confront us today. I sincerely hope that you will continue such work as this, which I am sure will enhance both your prestige and the power of the press.

Always my best wishes,

THOUGHT

Of in the darkness the shadows are deep
Hovering the path that is rugged and steep
Yet from the gloom the sun will appear
Bringing a gladness, a comfort a cheer
Back of all darkness, of grief and dismay,
Back of the clouds that hover our way,
Back of the sorrow we all must endure,
Back of it all, there is something secure.

By SCOTT MEADE

We saw a picture of a dog not long ago, a mongrel of uncertain lineage, who was unusual in the respect that she was an habitual smoker. The habit when her master tossed a cigarette away and she snaked it up with a long pink tongue and began puffing like a four-legged Chicago fire. It is said that the wayward Lulu will occasionally inhale and blow the smoke through her nose but we suspect that wafting a few smoke rings is still beyond her reach.

We don't know just why we're so perturbed at this accomplishment of an otherwise ordinary dog; we've also known of bubble-gum chewing racoons, but this shakes, ever so slightly, our faith in a dog is man's best friend. We have a healthy liking for our tail-wagging friends and we believe that their great strength is their almost total lack of weaknesses so common in their masters. So, when man's best friend shows signs of closer identity with his human master, it leaves us a bit unhappy.

There isn't much we can say along commercial lines, for this column is written primarily to talk over everyday opinions with you. We do want you to know, however, that in time of need we're always at your beck and call.—West Liberty Funeral Home 206 Court Street.

Send all poems to Mr. Engle
326 Woodland Avenue, Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. Georgia Franklin Taylor, 21 Emerson Street, Aberdeen, Maryland, has sent a poem that I am sure all readers of M.M. will appreciate. It is a poem of reminiscence about West Liberty and vicinity, or, in Mrs. Taylor's own words: "This poem concerns West Liberty, Ky. as it was when I was a young girl living there. Of course it has changed now and is entirely different from my nostalgic memories of it."

THINGS I REMEMBER

A summer morning sparkling and bright,
A spider web dripping with dew,
Pink apple blossoms falling apart,
With pink sunshine peeping through,
The barrel hammock stretched between the trees,
Lilac fragrant blooming nearby,
Sweet honeysuckle twined on the fence,
Tall pines causing the breezes to sigh,
The vegetable garden, the strawberry patch,
A house with a green lawn all around,
Yellow bells first to bloom in the spring,
And violets close to the ground,
The mother cat, fresh warm milk in her dish,
Her kittens close by playing tag,
Dogs sniffing coon tracks down by the brook,
The footbridge beginning to sag,
Just down the hill, the old water mill,
The miller all dusty and white,
Often I watched him grinding the grain,
And saw him go homeward at night—
The Licking River flowing by fields,
At tide time, so deep and so wide,
Long rafts of logs that slowly went by,
To market on early spring tides . . .
I know these things forever are gone;
They live now in very small measure,
But all of them will always remain
As gems in my memory's treasure.
A poem like this bases its appeal on the fact that everyone has memories. Of course the poem will have more appeal for those people, like Mrs. Taylor, who are fortunate enough to remember a time when life was a much more simple process than it is now. It was a time when there seemed to be more hard labor in order to make ends meet. At the same time, there seemed to be more leisure than our modern gadgets can supply us with today. For then one could meet calmly and leisurely with others of his community. There was time for conversation—even a time for whittling, that lost art of leisure which has retreated to the hills and hollows of Eastern Kentucky and is threatened with extinction.

Fortunate is he who can remember "grind days," which were usually on Saturdays when the sun-tanned sons of the soil left their fields, sheathed their corn and threw their turns on the backs of the mules and headed for the mill. Grind day was not only a necessity, it was a social gathering, a time for jokes and laughter, a time for "dropping" knives and perhaps a game or two of horse-shoes and a little trading at the general store, or settling accounts and waiting for the mail to come. Remembering such things is a strange bittersweet experience of joy and sadness.

TURN BACK, MY FRIEND

For years I traveled a highway Full of signs that were easily read.
Each one that I read as I traveled on Spelled out danger ahead.

But I kept on traveling along Farther and farther each day, Ignoring the signs of curves ahead,
Or the danger along the way.

One day while traveling along, Tired and moving slow, I looked up ahead and saw a sign by the road
Saying just one more mile to go.

It was there I stopped to wonder What's at the end of this road: Is it a place to rest my weary soul
From this troublesome heavy load?

'Twas then I heard a voice calling "Come, come, I have something to tell."

Turn back, my friend, the road you are on Leads to the doorway of hell."

Now I'm glad I heard this voice calling. It was Jesus I recognized well, Softly and tenderly He said to me

"Turn from the doorway of hell." So I turned and headed back On a road that is narrow and straight.

And I know when I've gone the last mile of this way I'll enter through Heaven's gate.

OBITUARY

WATTS

Mrs. Ann Cottle Watts passed away March 26, 1953, in Columbia, Mississippi, in the 48th year of her life. Born April 29, 1905, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Cottle of West Liberty. She attended public school in West Liberty, Kentucky, Columbia, Mississippi, and was graduated from the Atherton School for Girls, Louisville, Kentucky. Later she graduated from the Spencerian School of Business, Louisville.

She married M. D. Watts of Columbia, Mississippi in June of 1927 and they resided in Elizabethtown, Indiana, Hattiesburg, Mississippi, Jackson and Columbia, Mississippi.

An active and devout Christian, Mrs. Watts started her Christian life at an early age and at twelve she became a member of the First Baptist church of Columbia. Throughout the remainder of her life she was an example of Christian living both in her home and in her church. She was a person of great faith and it was never more evident than in the latter days of her life, when after a long and lingering illness, her spirit and cheerfulness never wavered.

The interment was at Improve, Mississippi, beside the grave of her son, Michael Dean Watts, who passed away at the age of three at Elizabethtown, Indiana, in September of 1947.

Mrs. Watts, in addition to her parents, is survived by her husband M. D. Watts and daughter, Mary Beth Watts of Columbia, Mississippi; one sister, Mrs. R. A. Dean, Sr. of Louisville, Kentucky, and two brothers, Rodney D. Cottle of Eastwood, Kentucky and W. Garland Cottle of Nashville, Tennessee.

PROGRESSIVE HOMEMAKERS

Hanging and grouping pictures concluded the study of pictures for the home by the Progressive Homemakers club on April 9 under the direction of Mrs. James Brown, home agent. The proper hanging grouping of pictures in two or more will cause the picture to speak the language of the room as well as the homemaker herself.

Mrs. D. W. Ingram, lesson leader, gave way to Mrs. Brown, because as Mrs. Ingram put it, Mayme led our first lesson and it seems fitting that she lead our last.

Mrs. Harold Rose, president, led the devotional and presided during the business session and social hour. During the social hour Mrs. Brown was handed an umbrella and asked to open it. Tiny packages fell from it, as a token of gratitude and love. The members presented her with lovely handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Byron Lewis, hostess for the lovely occasion, served the group delightful sandwiches, tea, coffee and cookies. Miss Nancy Hurst as a guest assisted Mrs. Lewis.

STATEMENT OF
CLAY BYRD

I filed for Sheriff several weeks ago and I have been talking with my relatives and friends and they believe that I have an excellent chance to win the nomination, and I feel very confident that I will win.

I am a candidate and will be until this is over unless something unforeseen happens, and I want my relatives and friends to continue the good work of my campaign. It is my purpose to begin active campaigning soon and hope to see as many of you as possible between now and the primary

Sincerely yours,

OBITUARY

DONAHEW

Bert DonaheW, son of Clell and Lydia DonaheW, was born Aug.
28, 1888, at Paragon, Ky., and died at his home near Elm Log March 15, 1953, age 64 years, 6 months and 17 days.

He was married to Cora Byron Nov. 25, 1905, who survives, and to them were born eight children,
seven of whom survive: Mrs.
Ethel Black of Clearfield; Zealliea Shupp of Cincinnati; Arvil DonaheW of Ashland; Ira Dono-hew of Ecorse, Mich.; and Crystal DonaheW, Gladys DonaheW and Lorean McKinney, all of Morehead Route 3.

Mr. DonaheW had been ill for eight months. During that time he was given extensive medical care, and tender and considerate care by his children, wife, brother and sister.

Besides the above mentioned,
he leaves one sister, Polly Oakley of Morehead Rt. 3, and two brothers, James DonaheW, Morehead Rt. 3, and Math DonaheW of Seattle, Wash.

Uncle Bert lived most of his life on part of the old homestead of his father on Licking River near Elm Log. He was a farmer and loved the life he lived as such. He was honest, loyal and kind and could be turned to in time of need. He became a member of the First Church of God 15 years ago and has lived a devoted Christian life.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Leslie Brown and interment was in the DonaheW cemetery.

CHARLES DAVIS
FOR SENATOR

Charles H. Davis of Jackson, Breathitt county, Ky., places his name before the voters of the 34th Senatorial District, composed of Breathitt, Lee, Magoffin and Morgan counties, asking them to consider him when making their choice for Democratic nominee for the office of Senator on August 1, 1953.

Mr. Davis is the son of the late R. T. Davis and is married to Cordia Miller, daughter of Hoy
H. Miller and the late Savannah Back Miller. He has been elected by the citizens of Jackson for the past 23 years to serve them on their municipal governing body, six of these years as Mayor, a position he now holds. He is a Trustee of the Methodist church of Jackson.

Mr. Davis holds a lifetime membership in the Alumni Association, University of Kentucky.
He also has a degree from the Louisville College of Pharmacy and is a veteran of World War I.
For the past 20 years Mr. Davis has been engaged in the coal business in addition to other activities. He sends you this message:

"The people of this district are probably tired of hearing the various candidates speak well of themselves. Experience has taught that a candidate is often tempted to exaggerate his own good qualities. Therefore, I will come among you, talk with you, and attempt to answer your questions. Then I invite you to make inquiry of me as a Christian, as an executive, and as a man.
Should you be convinced that I merit your support, I will gratefully accept it and will discharge this trust in the manner that I think you would have me do."
